

... of people joined together by blood, marriage, or other means including adoption or a close social bond.

Emotions that a person can have.

A special bond between yourself and a friend.

Feelings of affection and care.

A way of behaving that shows respect for other people.

A way of thinking about someone or behaving towards someone, in a kind and thoughtful way.

A view or idea about something, often someone, which is often untrue.

... help us feel or pet dies or us anymore.

We can decide what job we want to do and being a boy or girl should not affect what we choose.

Families support and care for each other.

Other people might be yours, but

We can sometimes see how people are by their body language, such as smiling.

If a friendship makes us unhappy, we can talk to someone or find a new friend.

